Founded in 2007 by cycling enthusiasts, Cargobike is Sweden's leading and oldest producer of box-bikes. With more than a decade of experience and rigorous testing in our challenging Scandinavian climate, every single screw, angle and component has been evaluated in order to ensure the most optimal construction choices are made.

All of Cargobike's models have been designed, developed and assembled in Sweden, and Cargobike is one of only a few bike companies in Europe that has allowed the quality of its box-bikes to be tested by the independent testing body, TÜV. Back in 2007 Cargobike was a pioneer in the introduction of box-bikes, and it is now the biggest-selling box-bike company in Sweden, with more than 150 retailers throughout the country.

Throughout the entire company, there is a focus on craftsmanship, safety, knowledge and service. A Cargobike is a climate-smart mode of transport, and the range of models features bikes that meet all kinds of requirements.

A Cargobike gives the owner a safe, secure and convenient means of transport that can easily replace a large proportion of daily car journeys. The bikes are fitted with cleverly designed boxes for transportation or storage. The boxes can easily be adapted according to the user's needs, and can be used for transporting goods, mobile sales, or the safe carriage of children or pets, to mention just a few of the possible uses.

Cargobike is a company that continues to play a pioneering role, with a vision of changing the standard of how we travel around in our daily lives. Driven by constant curiosity and commitment, Cargobike is a company that is in a state of continuous development and has the ambition to refine its products to always ensure the supply of the safest box-bikes on the market.
